BOOMERS FORCE GOVERNOR OUT

Hughes Letter Gives Them Little Comfort, but Keeps His Record Straight.

LOBBY IS WONDERING.

Just How Far Candidate Can Insist on "Reforms" an Unsolved Problem.

ALBANY, Jan. 22.- "Smoked out, o the trials of a Governor who wanted would be an appropriate title for the hide-and-seek drammer for wants the job now held by his warm and personal friend President Roosevel activity of a lot of fellows who wanted good seats on the Hughes band wagon. They have been trafficking with the old bosses, who were badly crimped by the Governor before he began to play politics, promising all sorts of things in return for delegates. In a few weeks the Governor would have been involved in a fine row which would have placed him in a false light. So he decided to stop hiding and come out in the

His letter contains cold comfort for his boomers, but places him correctly before the public. With the assistance of his real friends his boom will now teadily expand until it penetrates the remote sections of the country-or blows up. Its fate is entirely in the hands of the straight-goods bosses, who do not usually indulge in any undertakings from purely philanthropic impulses.

Just what effect his move is going to have upon the Governor's standing with the Legislature remains to be seen. Being a candidate looking for delegates would naturally impair his independence in dealing with the highbinders in the Legislature and make him more cautious about offending any interest that might be worth cultivating in a Presidential campaign.

The Governor's letter admitting he's a willing Barkis rings true enough to impress the legislators with his determination to prosecute to the limit the reforms he has undertaken, but there is no mistaking the fact that he to not viewed with the same degree of fear he was during the first year of his term.

Just how far his avowed candidacy for the Presidency will affect his standing with the Legislature will be revealed when the statesmen tackle the first of his recommendations to come out into the open.

Jimmle Oliver is Handed a "Crusher" by Grandiloquent Cuvillier.

The first spat of the session between Col. James Oliver and Louis Cuvillier, of Manhattan, occurred yesterday when the colonel jumped on the deep-voiced grandlioquent ex-Virginian for offering a resolution to enlarge the autocratio Committee on Rules, of which the colonel is a member.

uvillier flared up, and in his excitement executed a lingual slip that brought down the House, "Sir," shouted Cuvliner, "the gentle-man from New York, Mr. Oliver, is out of order and parparliamentary in his self-deminelation."

Franchot Got Fancher's Flowers, Douglass Paid the Bill.

J. Robert Douglass, assistant librarian of the Assembly, has been trying to find out since the opening session of the flowers on Fancher's table, but that there was a large cluster of roses on the desk of Senator Franchot, of the Niagara-Orleans district. Douglass called up the florist from whom the flowers had been ordered and he insisted that the senator of the conclusion he was an Italian and so voted for the Republican candidate. The Italian voters wouldn't vote for Costello on the ground that he was Irish, and between the two Costello had a pretty close shave.
